Pleasanton to consider budget cuts

PLEASANTON — The city council will go over Councilman Ken Mercer's proposed budget cuts with the proverbial fine tooth comb Tuesday night.

The public hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers.

If Mercer has his way, meetings might not be in the city council chambers much longer. He wants to save the city $6,900 annually by no longer renting that building space, which formerly housed the Pleasanton Justice Court.

Council members probably will oppose that suggestion and judging by the preliminary discussion last week on Mercer's suggestions, other points will find tough sledding, too.

Below is a partial list of cuts proposed by Mercer.

City council: travel, all meetings, $5,500; dues and publications, National League of Cities, $600; special services, barbecue, $500, miscellaneous, $200.

City Manager: travel, to various conferences for city manager and assistant city manager, $2,325. City attorney: travel to conferences, $650.

Community promotion: Christmas decorations, $2,130; street decorations, county fair time, $450. Advance planning, travel $675; plan commission lunches, $250; commission seminars and conferences, $400, staff meals and conferences, $100; geologic survey, $10,000; Congress of Valley Agencies, $1,000.

Building inspection, travel, $430, E. Bay meetings, $75. Engineering supervision, travel, lunches, $100. General engineering: personnel classes, $250. Traffic safety, travel, lunches, $100; traffic buttons and improvements, $1,360.

According to Mercer's calculations, that adds up to $64,630 worth of savings.

Bicentennial Heritage Festival

Pleasanton's Bicentennial Heritage Festival continues today, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., at Amador Valley Community Park, Black Avenue and Santa Rita Road. This was a typical scene at yesterday's activities. There are 150 arts and crafts booths. There are also art shows, stage entertainment and awards for the best heritage costumes.

Housing unit residency weighed

PLEASANTON — California's Attorney General will be asked to rule on whether a member of Pleasanton's Housing Authority, Chairman William Thompson, must resign since he is not a resident of the city.

This action was authorized Friday evening by a unanimous vote of the housing board, following a special meeting, and the Pleasanton City Council will be asked to support the move.

Thompson, appointed to the authority seven years ago, is a resident of nearby Castlewood. On a split 3 to 2 council vote, Thompson was recently asked to resign based on state law which now prohibits non-city residents from serving on a municipality's housing board. The law did not exist when Thompson was appointed.

A crisis in the land

The drought that ended a dream

"Old, establisehed ranchers — well, they're going to make it.

"But the younger ones, the ones who just got into ranching a few years ago?

"For them, it's the end of a dream."

That's how Mrs. Bob Vieux of Livermore sees the "devastating" drought that has virtually eliminated this year's crop of cattle feed, except for that which is raised on irrigated land.

In the Valley, only dry - land ranching is practiced because there's not enough water in the hill area to make irrigation possible.

That means ranchers depend on the rainfall each year to bring up the new grasses and hay for winter and springtime grazing.

It's probably been half a century since the area was hit with a drought this bad. Scarcely any feed came up this year.

"This time of year," says Sunol rancher Carl Zwissig, "we usually don't have to buy feed. But this year we do.

"And the price has almost doubled. It's up to $100 a ton now.

"I'm gettin' poorer."

Karen Rasmussen, vice president of the state Cowbelles and wife of former Cattlemens Association head Gordon Rasmussen of Pleasanton, says ranchers ordinarily allow for good and bad years in their business planning.

"But," she says, "programming is done years in advance. And now, ranchers have had to change the whole program.

"They're facing decisions they never had to face before. The whole program is being changed."

The biggest change, she says, is that ranchers ordinarily hold over cows from one year to the next to breed calves.

This year, there's not enough range grass to feed the cows, so they're being sold instead.

That means that next year there will be no calf crop as there usually is.

Ranchers will have to begin the cycle by buying calves — if they can get them. Nobody knows what the price will be.

Ordinarily, ranchers in this area will buy calves in the fall, then sell them in June when they are about double the size at which they were purchased.

This year, calves had to be taken to the Stockton market as early as February.

Some ranchers are renting irrigated pastureland in the San Joaquin Valley. But rents are high and competition for the land is stiff.

It's the driest year in recorded Valley history, with a total rainfall to date of 7.04 inches for the 1975-76 season.

Average rainfall for the area is 20 inches.

While ranchers are reeling from the drought, recreation seekers will also be affected this summer.

Mount Diablo State Park has already been shut down briefly and other public parks will probably also be closed as fire danger rises.

Lakes and streams will be low — some below the level of boat launches, leaving sailors high and dry.

Sudden islands may begin to appear where last year there were none — putting a damper in water skiing and speedboating.

Hunting grounds are also be expected to be closed.

According to Assemblyman William Campbell of Whittier, had of a legislative subcommittee dealing with fire problems, "Our forests and grasslands will be virtual powder kegs ready to explode."

The drought is not expected to cut dramatically into the water supply for personal or industrial use. But a second year of drought could do that.

At this point, both ranchers and others who are being affected in one way or another by the desiccation are praying for just one thing: Early rains next fall, continuing into winter to give the mountain snow cover (California's major water source) and the plants and grasses a good start for 1977.

Local cost soars

Valley ponders $7 million tag for that line

Stunned by preliminary cost estimates that indicate the Livermore - Amador Valley Wastewater Management Agency (LAVWMA) may have to come up with $6 million in bonds to finance the effluent disposal pipeline, LAVWMA directors have begun to wonder what will happen if the bonds fail.

Prior to the Thursday night financial briefing, a $3 million price tag had been associated with the project. Financial consultant Stone and Youngberg's bleak suggestion that LAVWMA may have to provide between $6 million and $7.25 million in bonds has the board worried.

Knowing voters' present day reluctance to pass bond issues, LAVWMA has decided to explore alternatives to a bond issue.

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors has asked LAVWMA to put the pipe size to the voters in an advisory referendum. They want the voters to decide how large the pipe should be. The supervisors want a larger pipe with capacity reserved to them for industrial development.

LAVWMA has opted for a smaller pipe, sized for average flow with surge ponds to handle peak periods.

Ernie Bodnar of Stone and Youngberg warned the LAVWMA board Thursday night that an advisory referendum in November would set the project behind schedule. Once pipe size is determined, a second vote would be needed to approve bonds for the project.

LAVWMA could put three options on the ballot: no pipeline, average capacity pipeline with surge ponds for peak flows, peak capacity pipeline.

But Bodnar said this wording could result in mass confusion. He urged LAVWMA to hire a bond counsel to avoid "ending up wtih with an invalid bond."

LAVWMA chairwoman Lila Euler said that "on the surface, I'm opposed to several proposals. I think it would defeat our purpose."

Ron Hyde of Valley Community Services District and Helen Tirsell of Livermore concurred with Euler.

But Pleasanton Mayor Robert Philcox said he is "not afraid to let the voters make a choice" on pipe sizes.

Regardless of wording, if the bond measure fails in November, Bodnar said government code permits LAVWMA to issue revenue bonds by ordinance, subject to referendum by the voters.

If the voters turned down the referendum, Bodnar said LAVWMA could issue non-voter revenue bonds, based on the rationale that LAVWMA is under mandate from the Regional Water Quality Control Board to comply with their requirements.

But Bodnar noted that LAVWMA's present joint powers agreement specifically precludes them from the issuance of any non - voter bonds.

Under conditions established by the LAVWMA agreement, provision of facilities to accommodate greater than 13 million gallons of effluent per day or the expenditure of more than $1.5 million must be submitted to the voters for approval.

LAVWMA's current proposal exceeds both of those conditions.

At the close of the meeting, Hyde suggested it is now time for LAVWMA to examine its "sacred cow" — the joint powers agreement itself. Euler and Tirsell agreed.

The implication is that if the agreement can be re-worded to exclude the voter-approval conditions, LAVWMA can issue bonds without putting the pipeline on the ballot.

At first glance, Philcox said he opposed rewriting the agreement to avoid putting the pipeline to the voters.

"I'm not excited about that," Philcox said. "If the total project cost were closer to $1.5 million, say about $2 million, then I might be in favor of it.

"But if it's $6 million, then I think we'll have to go to the voters," he said. "I don't know if the voters will approve of going around them."

Main St. signals eyed

PLEASANTON — Main Street might get some traffic signals after all.

City Manager Bill Edgar told the city council last week he is proposing two signals, one at Ray Street, the other at St. Mary Street, as part of his proposed capital improvement plans for the coming year.

Each signal would cost $45,000 and while some council members showed concern about the expense involved, the biggest concern from Councilman William Herlihy was the effect the signals would create.

"Signals on Main Street would turn it into a plastic area," said Herlihy. He felt it would "compete against the heritage look" on the street.

But Mayor Robert Philcox noted that the traffic signals came up recently in questions to him from Chamber of Pommerce members. Downtown merchants want something done for better traffic circulation and signals might help, said Philcox.

Herlihy thought there might be other ways to channel traffic, but he added he didn't want a $1,000 study done to learn qhat they are.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire thought that at least one light is needed on Main Street. "This is the one issue most people have asked me about," she told the council. Maybe one light at St. Mary Street would be the best I'm not sure there also should be one at Ray Street."

Archer Futch

'Leave land use decisions to cities'

This is the sixth in a series of articles on eight candidates for the Zone 7, Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, Board of Directors.

Archer Futch believes that Zone 7 should not be placed in a position "that by their actions would destroy the economic base and land planning authority that rightfully belongs to the cities and the county."

The former Livermore Mayor thinks growth should be municipal. Planning for municipal development is a function "that rightfully belongs to the cities and should remain with them," Futch said.

How Zone 7 will exercise its authority is a major issue in the campaign, Futch said, because "the future of the valley, the cities and the county, is at stake in the way development is planned."

Futch would like the zone to restrict itself to water delivery and flood control. "I'm content to leave land use planning and growth issues with the local governments where it should be," he declared.

"Zone 7 is a technical agency and its primary role is to provide quality water and flood control consistent with protection of the environment," Futch said.

But Futch maintains that there are situations when the zone should withhold services. He cites the California Environmental Protection Act that says protection of the environment shall be the guiding criteria.

Futch said he would vote to deny service to Geldertown or a similar major development on the grounds that it would violate the California Environmental Protection Act guidelines, pose unfair financing burdens on other zone residents, and deprive the west end of the valley from receiving its fair share of treated water.

A major development outside city limits could destroy the city's tax base and be detrimental to it. "The way Dublin developed was a mistake," Futch said, "and if Las Positas would occur, it would be worse than Dublin. I wouldn't favor repeating that mistake," he said.

Zone 7 can do more to improve the quality of water delivered to the west end of the valley, Futch believes. He would like to explore reducing treated water rates to encourage the cities to stop mixing in their own harder well water.

"It might be worth sacrificing a little economic advantage the zone might have to give up to provide better water to the west end of the valley," he said.

Futch said "there is some arbitrariness in the cost structure" of water rates. "Quality is not considered enough and the zone needs to discuss this with the cities and Dublin," he said.

He admits it may be necessary to expand the Del Valle Water Treatment Plant. "On going improvements to the system, he said, should be financed by the water user. Capital facilities should be financed by connection fees.

Futch is "not enthusiastic" about the Livermore-Amador Valley Wastewater Managment Agency's effluent disposal pipeline, but he is convinced it was a decision that had to be made.

A former delegate to LAVWMA, Futch said he would have preferred taking a closer look at alternatives. Options that should have been considered in more detail include cleaning up the effluent to a level acceptable for discharge into the arroyo, and recycling.

"I was not enthusiastic that the pipeline was the best decision, but a decision had to be made," Futch explained. "Given the constraints we were under, we had an obligation to clean up what we contribute to pollution," he said.

Futch supports a pipeline sized to pump out of the valley the same amount of water that's brought it. The smaller pipe, he said, "would be consistent with handling all the population we'll have for our water supply in the future."

A larger pipe would be two times as expensive to local taxpayers as the smaller pipe with surge ponds, he said.

Zone 7 should be involved in an overall plan for water management in the valley, Futch said. But he added, "The zone shouldn't have overall responsibility for everything without the cities being involved."

Futch foresees a role for Zone 7 as an operational agency for sewage disposal, but he said the cities should retain some control over sewage treatment.

"The zone should assume a leadership and cooperative role in protecting the water supply," Futch said, "and I think they'll get cooperation from the cities."

He said his experience in local municipal government can help to generate cooperation between the zone and city agencies.

"If I am elected, because of my experience in local government, I can work effectively to bring about the cooperation that's really needed," Futch said.

Futch is involved in the June 8 race for three seats on the board because he is "concerned about the quality of life" in this valley.

"I'm somewhat of an environmentalist," Futch remarked, "and I don't think that's bad. I make no apologies for that, but I do think that's different from being anti-growth."

Lumped in with Don Miller and type-cast as a "no-growther," Futch hopes the public will recall that he worked to get the Livermore City Council to approve a 2 per cent growth rate.

"Prior to a few years ago, the rate of growth was somewhere around 8 or 10 per cent and I felt that was too high," Futch said. "I think the great majority of people in the valley think that's too high a rate."

Two per cent, he noted, is "significantly less but not zero."

And unlike Miller, Futch supported Project II to build the Del Valle Water Treatment Plant.

"I do what I feel is right and responsible," Futch concluded. "I think it's quite clear that my decisions as a zone director will be independent."

One man injured in First Street accident

PLEASANTON — One man was slightly injured after a two - car accident on First Street Wednesday which police attribute in part to a city maintenance vehicle blocking both drivers' views.

Rosenda Cataga Halog of Abbie Street told police she was westbound on Abbie at First Street and stopped at the sign. She looked both ways and then proceeded across First when her car collided with a car driven by Michael Alexander Gomez of Ventura Avenue in Livermore.

Gomez complained of pain to his left elbow but was not hospitalized.

"A vision obscurement was present in the form of a City of Pleasatnton maintenance vehicle parked in the left turn lane of southbound First," police reported. "The position of (the city) vehicle made it difficult for both driver number one and driver number two to view each other."

Police said they would seek a complaint against Halog for failing to stop and yield to through highway traffic.

Tacit traffic tabulator torpedos tire

PLEASANTON — William Frederick De Ryk told police he was driving on Tawney Drive near Vineyard Avenue Wednesday when his left front tire blew out.

Wondering what would cause his brand new, $85 tire to blow, De Ryk investigated and discovered a spike used to secure a traffic counter hose across the street pointing its head up.

After De Ryk showed police the flat, the counter was returned to the city engineering department.

The city hasn't decided whether to reimburse De Ryk for the damage.

Tri-Valley Cab Co. drivers strike to protest treatment, work policy

LIVERMORE — Tri - Valley Cab Co. drivers, angered over the allegedly deteriorating condition of their taxis, walked off the job Friday morning after presenting a list of grievances to company directors.

Striking drivers protested the general lack of maintenance of company cabs, including poor brakes, speedometers, tires, air conditioning and other items. They also cited the lack of scheduled coffee breaks and lunches, and poor treatment of drivers by directors as reasons for the walkout.

Dave Rezendes, director of administration and spokesman for Tri-Valley Cab, termed the grievances "ridiculous" and said the strike was prompted by failure to install air conditioning units when planned.

Rezendes said he will put an ad in local newspapers Monday asking for new drivers. "They didn't report for work, so we're operating under the assumption they no longer wish to work," he said.

Janet Menan, lead cab driver and spokesperson for the striking workers, said the cars are unsafe and should be taken off the road. She contacted Livermore police to run safety checks on the vehicles, but said they refused to intervene because it was a civil matter.

Menan said speedometers didn't work, and said she probably could have avoided an serious accident recently if her horn had functioned. "One of the cabs was given a ticket because the tires were bald," she added.

Director Rezendes admitted a cab was ticketed for bald tires, but disagreed as to who was to blame. "We did get one citation for a bald tire or two about two weeks ago. But it's up to the drivers to tell us the car needed repair."

When drivers complained about the lack of conditioning recently, one director instructed a dispatcher to write on a company blackboard, "If customers don't like the heat, let them walk," Menan said.

Rezendes remembered the sign to say, "If you won't smoke, the heat won't be so bad," and said it was just a joke written by a dispatcher without knowledge of management.

Menan said she will consider contacting a lawyer concerning both the unsafe condition of the cabs and treatment drivers are receiving.

Rezendes said he will begin interviewing "shortly" for new drivers.

Potential purchasers line up for popular Vintage Hills lots

PLEASANTON — They're calling it "The Great Pleasanton Land Rush of '76!"

As the myth is magnified through the years, they'll speak of Volkswagens at the ready, homesteaders eager to stake out their land. The Boom or Bust days of Vintage Hills.

Myths are like that.

But there they were last week. Nearly a dozen of them sprawling in Thursday's sun waiting for Saturday's opening sale for some 40 homesites overlooking the valley.

The cribbage games were "pretty close," Don said. Suzi's sun tan was coming along nicely.

"Have a beer?", he asked. "Stop by for tonight's bar-b-que?"

Now wait a minute What are you people doing here? Americans are notorious for waiting in lines. Three days for a Rolling Stones' concert is nothing.

But nobody camps out for two days to buy a house!

They do now.

Six families — or portions thereof — had assembled by noon Friday at the Vintage Hills sales office of H. C. Elliot for "first crack" at those yet - to - be built homes.

"Nancy (the saleswoman) told us that last year people started lining up on Friday night. So we came Thursday afternoon," they echoed.

There already was one controversy. Two families were after the same quarter - acre lot on Brandy Court that surmounts a sumptuous view from Sunol across Pleasanton to the floor of the valley.

Of the six families, five were after the five available homesites on the crest of Brandy Court.

Some worked in shifts. Others had their children marking time on the list.

"It's first come first served," they were told.

Three families already live in Vintage Hills, but want that view. "A good investment," said one.

To wile away the hours there was cribbage, reading, a guitar and singing, and "being neighborly before we're neighbors."

"Yeah," echoed another, "we're already sleeping together."

A harvest of music

PLEASANTON — Choral students at Harvest Park School in Pleasanton have capped an active year with attendance at several California Music Educators' Association-sponsored festivals, after taking part in many community programs.

Four students entered the Search for Talent program as representatives of the school. Presenting original and imaginative acts were Sandy Gordon, Kathy Solero, Melanie Wiedel, and Sally Thorson.

The seventh grade Lancer Lasses and eighth grade Crusaderettes vocal ensembles entered the solo ensemble festival sponsored by CMEA in March at Cal State Hayward. Group members are Jeanne Hempill, Susan Flowers, Claudie Cheng, Allison Wolford, Gail Wilson, Michelle Potts, and Sara Gane received a rating of II, or Excellent.

The Crusaderettes, composed of Lisa Anderson, Valerie Kent, Diane Ball, Melinda Maxwell, Kathy Solero, Shirley Nichols, Wanetta Mago, Natalie Partridge, and Kara Herrmann received a I, or Superior rating. This was the group's second such rating in two years.

In addition, three soloists were entered in this festival. It was the first time Harvest Park had entered soloists in a vocal festival, and each entrant received a rating of II, or Excellent. The students honored are seventh grader Rebecca Gleason and eighth graders Anders Plett and Jeff Smutny.

On April 24, the all-eighth grade Crusader Chorus attended the CMEA - sponsored choral festival at Ohlone College in Fremont. The group returned with an Excellent rating.

On May 8, the sixth grade Banner Chorus, the seventh grade Lancer Chorus, and the eighth grade Crusader Chorus traveled to San Jose State University to attend the third of their festival entries. Each group was judged, and attended a clinic session, for correction and training. The only chorus rated there was the Crusader Chorus, which received a rating of I, or Superior. It was a first such rating for a large chorus for Harvest Park.

The groups, under the direction of Mrs. Alberta Hill, have as their accompanists, Mrs. Mary McClain, Banner; Mrs. Nancy Gilbert, Lancer, and Mrs. Linda Peterson, Crusader.

Buddy Poppy Day helps disabled veteran

"For hundreds of long-term disabled veterans in Veterans Administration hospitals and state veterans homes, every day is V.F.W. Buddy Poppy Day," writes Millie Turner of Livermore, president of the Livermore Valley V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary.

She reports that the Veterans of Foreign Wars pay the disabled veterans who assemble and pack the poppies. In most cases, the money provides extra income for the disabled veteran to pay for those things which make hospital life more tolerable.

Donations made to the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the poppies are sent directly to the V.F.W. National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., which provides care for the widows and orphans of deceased veterans. Funds from poppy sales also provide rehabilitation for veterans, and pay for direct relief to families of needy veterans.

The annual sale of poppies in the valley is set Friday, and Saturday, May 21 and 22. Members of the Livermore Valley V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary will sell poppies at the Livermore Post Office and at local banks and supermarkets.

Scientific equipment donated

Scientific equipment will be presented to representatives of Granada, Livermore and Del Valle high schools at the annual spring luncheon for the Engineer's Wives Auxiliary Wednesday, May 19.

Elsie Armstrong will host the event at her Livermore home, 826 Adams Ct., at 11:30 a.m.

Guest speaker for the luncheon will be Jackie Williams of Alden Lane Nursery with tips on specific gardening problems.

PAL guest

Marjorie Cathcart of Berkeley will critique art show entries at the May 17 for the Pleasanton Art League.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public at the Pleasanton Cultural Arts Center.

AN EDITORIAL

One Valley, one need, one question

There will come a day when they finally solve the Great Sewer Crisis;

There will arrive that magic moment when the balance of the Bay Area is made to stop dumping its polluted air into this basin;

There will be a newspaper edition, printed in and for these collective communities, that will not carry a single word about sewerage, about water management, or even about freeways — over or under.

And when all that is accomplished; when there are no more crises in the Valley; when we don't even have Don Miller to kick around any more, there will still be that one last question remaining on the Valley's lips ... One city or three?

For, as we move closer to solutions to this and that ancient hassle, we move closer also to an understanding of the fact that we are, in truth, but one. One basin in which those air pollutants gather; one funnel through which the world's traffic flows; one vast underground resource that we must always fight to protect ... from contaminated water, from becoming the world's garbage dump.

These several and separate communities which reach from lovely San Ramon to sylvanic Sunol, from the canyon known as Dublin to the pass we call Altamont, these have had no greater defender over the years than this writer. But that which we love is not always that which is logical.

There is no logic in the complex of school systems and administrations and taxes which lap and overlap through the three communities at the west end of the Valley. Some day there will be one school system, because there is no other logical answer.

There is no triumph, not for any of us, in those tiresome battles which pit Livermore against Pleasanton, Pleasanton against VCSD, and sometimes those three against everybody else. It is childish, it is wasteful, and it will come to an end. Some day.

Even the county line which divides Dublin and San Ramon is a thin stripe that is severed by every thrust, except common sense. Perhaps that county boundary is the one divider that will remain, but only because it must; not because it makes sense.

In none of this do we argue for "One Valley City." Neither do we share that recent pronouncement that "all development should emanate from the existing cores."

But we do plea for new definitions for "growth" and "local control" and "municipal services." We submit that the people could care less who operates their sewer system, produces the water, responds to the fire — just so long as that service is prompt, consistent and within reasonable cost.

What the people do care about are those values bound up in "community of interest" ... the cultural, recreational, and environmental standards within their neighborhood; and they care also about land use, present and future; and they want police who are understanding, teachers who are sensitive, government that is responsive.

Someday, somehow, those who share this one basin will stop fighting with each other, so that we might start fighting for each other.

It took 150 years to meld these 50 states into one nation. But it was worth it. In something less than that we should be able to mold this Valley into a community of interest that makes more sense, and less headlines. It's a big job; but worth it.

Fighting fires in Dublin-SRV

Valley Community Services District Fire Chief Phil Phillips last week made some observations about the district's fire protection that merit the careful consideration of all Dublin - San Ramon residents.

Requesting budget appropriations to hire an additional 11 firefighters, the chief noted that VCSD's last effective manpower addition came in 1969. Since then the district's population has increased by 6,000 people.

There are clear indications that the population will continue to rise. This month, VCSD has received applications for connection to its sewer plant well in excess of the number of sewer connections available. A proposed San Ramon Valley general plan states that high density housing (four to seven homes per acre) is planned for San Ramon.

Comparing VCSD's fire department to others in similar size communities throughout California, VCSD's fire staff of 22 firefighters in 40 per cent smaller than other fire departments.

Last week, the VCSD Board of Directors approved the chief's request to hirean assistant fire chief-fire inspector. But the board indicated it could not afford to expand the department to include the 10 other firefighters the chief would like.

The fire department is well aware of the district's tight financial situation, but the men are worried the community will grow so fast that soon there will come a time that needed fire protection srevice services won't be there.

The San Ramon Homeowners Association shares that concern.

Residents have an opportunity to discuss the manpower and budget shortages at a public hearing on the VCSD 1976-77 budget, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the VCSD General Office.

It may well be that a voter - approved tax override to support improved fire protection services is the district's only recourse.

But Chief Phillips has sounded an alarm, and it's time now for concerned citizens to respond.

Teacher onslaught

Last time we peeked the Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB) was setting up shop, organizing procedural ground rules, adding a secretary here an aide there ... generally preparing for an onslaught of teacher jurisdictional cases.

EERB is fast wading into deep water and, as befits a budding bureaucracy, it is adding staff and pressing for more money. No problem.

After all, the $3.1 million they seek is to arbitrate the problems of clients statewide.

The three-member EERB received Senate Financial Committee approval on the funding request earlier this month. A legislative vote is expected by mid-June and final action by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., by July 1.

In the meantime, the EERB is trying to stretch the remainder of the original $300,000 allotment.

A major expense comes in conducting representational elections, an estimated 30 statewide.

Board members have said they will not conduct elections in districts when and if questions remain on which employees should be in the bargaining units. This would cover the situations in such local instances as the Amador and Pleasanton districts where a handful of certificated personnel are asking for separate representation from the established teacher groups.

EERB member Raymond Gonzales has said they will resolve such questions "probably by case rather than rule."

This would be in keeping with the new board's low key approach in traversing from Winton Act to collective bargaining.

The first test of EERB's expertise in arbitration could occur in Richmond where the majority group (California Teachers Association chapter) faces the American Federation of Teachers group for the right to represent the district's 1,612 teachers.

Its handling of the Richmond case could go a long way in establishing EERB's credibility ... or lack of same.

Hard water facts

Editor, The Times:

Everyone knows the water in Pleasanton and Dublin is terrible. I have met residents of those communities who clean their bathroom fixtures by chipping away the scale with a screwdriver. I have always believed that Pleasanton and Dublin must have better water.

The Herald, in their attempt to elect their own pro-Geldermann, anti - citizen slate, has falsely labeled my vote on Project 2 as a vote to deny better water to Dublin and Pleasanton. If an honest proposal for a rational project had been offered, I would have voted for it.

Why did I vote no on the specific project known as Project 2?

1) I did not believe the Zone 7 Board when the promised no cost increase to taxpayers to pay for Project 2. The current Zone majority has indeed raised water rates 40% in two years to pay for Project 2, and we water - drinking taxpayers are paying for it.

2) I did not believe the Zone 7 Board when it promised to reduce the size of Project 2 if growth slowed because of impending sewer limitations. Growth did slow down for that reason, but a smaller, cheaper project was not built.

3) Project 2 gave no guarantee that the better water would be for present Valley residents. The Zone's adamant refusal to phase out its hard water wells in the West end is a strong indication that they seek large scale land development, and not really better water. Water quality in Dublin and Pleasanton is still poor, and now it is increasingly expensive too.

4) Zone 7 ignored a smaller cheaper alternative to Project 2 which would have made it difficult for developments like "Geldertown" to take away the better water intended for Dublin and Pleasanton ...

I have decided to run for the Zone 7 Board precisely because of such broken promises, and because of the Zone 7 majority's consistent disregard for the public interest and their consistent pro-developer stance.

Most pliable

Editor, The Times:

I really liked Ed Kinney's closing remark in Tuesday's paper: "I am pliable and I can be convinced." It is very easy to be pliable when you don't know much about something. Let me submit that Ed Kinney is probably the most pliable candidate running for Zone 7.

Reporting errors

Editor, The Times:

I have been silent as long as my feelings will allow: I am now speaking as a citizen and teacher.

The editorial in Tri-Valley Herald (May 9) captioned "Free at Last!" concerning Granada High School's future and Jack Lee's involuntary reassignment to the District Office is an example of the kind of bad taste, insensitivity to human feelings and vindictiveness that caused me to avoid taking the Tri-Valley Herald for about ten years. This past year I have subscribed so that I might know what news was printed about schools and teachers. I recently reminded one of the reporters that comments inserted in an article were inaccurate and gave an erroneous meaning to the "report." Apparently, consideration and good manners were not the attributes of the editorial writer last Sunday.

I believe that it is possible to report the news accurately and to express an opinion without this type of behavior.

Easter Fair

Editor, The Times:

The members of Toyland Chapter of Children's Home Society wish to express their gratitude to all those who gave their support to it's sixth annual Children's Easter Fair, which was held April 10 at Livermore Recreation Center. The $1,300 raised will help support the services to children and parents offered by Children's Home Society.

The publicity provided by the news media, donations from cooperating merchants, assistance from volunteer groups, Associate members, individuals and the people who purchased the 700 tickets all contributed to making this an overwhelming success.

Leave it to kids to successfully one-up their elders!

In this case, their journalistic elders.

At hand is the April edition of Fallon School's "Erratic Edition," a well put together and informative little student newspaper. In fact, it would make a few high school journals blush in envy.

Not bad for a group of 10 and 11-year olds.

The kids haven't missed a trick. Some of what we alleged professionals call hard news (story of an accident), classified ads, crossword puzzle, "droodles," class news...even an editorial by editor-in-chief Jim Hendricks!

One of the more eye - catching, albeit brief, articles is that on "The Life of A Principal" by Greg Karels. To be honest, Greg goes pretty easy on Bo Isaeff. Doesn't go into any of the Lions Club stuff or other community activities Bo is associated with.

Master Hendricks and his staff certainly know what sells newspapers. One of the features is a Dear Abby-tyye column entitled "Dear Gabby." The April edition includes a spicy little ditty signed by "Two Timer."

Fallon School's "Erratic Edition" is published (you guessed it) "erratically" in Dublin thanks to Mary Jane Hyde, the sponsor and journalistic advisor, and an intrepid staff headed by Hendricks, Karels, Karen Kohlbeck and Annette Schneider.

Now back to that column, "Dear Gabby."

Round the town

"I see where Americans are still purchasing luxury items at a record clip," I announced at the breakfast table the other morning. There being no particular response, I pressed the matter another inch or two.

"Ninety four percent of American homes have a TV set, more than half of them colored." And then, wanting to add a little spice to the morning debate, I added — "That's the TV sets that are more than half colored, not the Americans."

Detecting no great roar of laughter, I pressed on with my recitation.

"Dishwashers in 28 percent of the American homes, at least one room air conditioner in 32 percent of the domiciles. One or more cars in 81 percent of the American families."

"Are you trying to tell me something with all this talk about luxuries in the home?" she asked, abruptly. "Next you'll be suggesting we're way above the average, too many luxuries, or something."

Heaven forbid. I have never begrudged her a single, solitary item for her comfort and convenience. It is only when they come in two's and three's that I get a mite nervous.

"Why is it we have two toasters, neither of which can perform with anything like consistency," I have been known to ask. The answer is always forthright, even if never understandable.

Once, on a tour of Mortgage Manor, I counted nine radios. Nine! Better than one per blessed room.

"What are you fussing with all those radios for?" she asked.

"To see if I can find just one that will bring in the Warrior Basketball game," I replied. "It's the night of the big playoff."

Not being telecast ... "for reasons of prior network commitment," the evening paper said, mysteriously. So scratch both TV sets, the color and the black - and - white job. Scratch the first seven radios also. None of them can pick up the Warrior broadcast station, which must be located in Outer Siberia.

"It seems to me that with nine radios in this house, one of them could grab and hold onto a simple basketball broadcast," I announced, disgustedly. I wound up with the Stereo set, which has a radio built in. Bill King came in loud and clear.

There are 250,000 more American homes that claim a TV, than there are those that own a washing machine. That's what AP says. We are well entertained, but somewhat dirty. Not particularly well fed, judging by the low ratio of refrigerators and freezers, but then again there's always Kentucky Fried Chicken.

"Did you fix the towel rack when you were upstairs fooling around with those radios?" she asks, busily. "It's been hanging loose on the wall ever since the grandchildren left."

"You know I am not the handy fixit type," I reply "Why didn't you have the man do it when he was here reshingling the side of the house?" Answer 'em right back, that's my philosophy.

"You want a carpenter to do a simple thing like hanging a loose towel rack?" she asks. It is a pointless argument. I will let the subject drop. In a week or two she will get the carpenter back, to loosen up the stuck door, and to hang the blessed towel rack. If nothing else, I am patient about these things.

People are stealing Gideon Bibles from hotel and motel rooms almost as fast as the Gideons can ship in fresh supplies. That also comes from Associated Press. "We don't really mind," says a Gideon spokesperson, stoutly. "We figure every stolen Bible finds its way to a worthy owner." Yeah, probably the same guy who lifts the hotel sheets, stuffs towels into the bottom of his suit case.

The Gideons shell out $1.88 for each Bible, 56 cents for each copy of the New Testament. All told, they figure 227 million editions of the Good Word have been scattered throughout the Hiltons and the Holiday Inns of this world.

On our last trip, I found the GB open and marked. Couldn't help but read the indicated passage.

"Want not of the things of this world," it said.

"The shower doesn't work," came another voice, from out toward the Holiday's bathroom. "Can you come here and fix it?"

I took her the copy of the Gideon Bible instead, with the passage marked about "Wanting not." She threw the soap at me.

It seems to me that if the Gideons were to spread "How To" books with the same generosity with which they now broadcast the Lord's word, they would really be getting somewhere. Personally, I have always been a devoted student of that "Want not" pitch. It's just taking care of what we already have that throws me for a loss. And threatens our perfect marriage. At home or on the road.

"The shower is spraying all over this bathroom" she announces.

"The colored TV works just fine," I reply. "You can't expect everything, for 23 dollars a night."

Moonlighting

It seems strange that Common Cause or some other reform group hasn't zinged in on the heinous practice wherein those in governmental positions are raking in wealth by moonlighting on the knife and fork circuit.

In the first place there is something vulgar about elective officials extending the hand for payment for doing what comes naturally, public speaking. Since the tenure of office depends largely upon their ability to get before audiences, anyone who invites them to speak is doing them a great favor. For such opportunities in other days they had to hire their own halls.

As for those on the public payroll who are not elective, reports to the public as to their stewardship always has been considered part of their contract.

But recent disclosures reveal that both elective and non-elective officials are finding some kind of a bonanza in making speeches. Not only do they receive what is euphmistically termed "honorarius" for these lectures, often of dubious value, but they are charging the state for their travel expenses in connection with their moonlighting expeditions.

All this is bad enough when it is a private organization doing the paying. For, it smacks of currying favor and it raises questions of whether the smell of then "green" isn't interfering with the performance of the duties for which the public pays them.

It becomes revolting when the payments are made by tax supported agencies. It reduces itself to public servants dipping both hands into the taxpayers' till at the same time.

The practice has become so widespread that it would be unfair to single out a few. All too many are doing it and, unfortunately, many are members of the Legislature. It is unfortunate because their complicity makes it difficult for them to blow the whistle on other state officials.

No doubt the California lawmakers will attempt to justify their actions by pointing to the Congress where some members reportedly are doubling their more than adequate self-voted salaries on the lecture platform. And, maybe the Congressmen got their ideas from the August Supreme Court justices who, despite their more than generous lifetime salaries, have crassly commercialized themselves by hiring out as speakers.

Indubitably they all got their notions of taking some additional bites out of the taxpayers from the educators.

For there has been a longstanding backscratching operation among the university and college professors of paying visiting lecturers. Untold thousands are siphoned out of the educational funds each year as "honorariums" for outsider lectures. Too often however the "outsiders" are already full timers on the state payroll.

The way it works is that a prof at one college will invite a buddy from another to lecture his class. In true quid pro quo the visitor then invites his host to come to his college. It is a cozy arrangement which provides dual pay for a single job all at the expense of the poor taxpayer.

One might argue that outside employemnt on one's own time and at one's own expesne is permissible. But even without the abuses of doing it on company time at company expense, there is a dedication expected of those who have been given a public trust which makes a public official's "own" time difficult to define. And considering that those in private enterprise do a great deal of community service, including speaking, at their own expense, shouldn't those fortunate enough to have the security and honor of public employment give a little too?

For Sunday, May 16, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An associate who always gets into the act, but has no business being there, should be kept out of your financial affairs today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should luck out in matters today that you take under personal control. Situations that you leave in the hands of others are another story.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a rather profitable day businesswise, provided you don't take unreasonable risks. Play it close to the vest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your schedule is apt to be a busy one today. You may have to decide the best way to delegate your time. Give the fun things priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're still in a favorable cycle where contacts can be helpful. Pay special attention to anyone you meet whose work is similar to yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Just relax today if you're out among friends. Don't be the one who turns a fun discussion into something heavy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you may not fully concur, it will be wisest today to do that which is best for the entire family and not just for yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things can be talked-out today regarding an important issue you and your mate have disagreed upon. It's up to you to open the discussion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If something opportune and profitable unexpectedly pops up today, it shouldn't be taken for granted. Follow through at once.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you forget about prejudging others today, you'll find you can have a ball with persons you might not usually associate with.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're extremely imaginative today. You should be able to get whatever you go after if you put your ingenuity to work.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may learn of something today that could rekindle a hope you've almost given up. The information may come to you in a unique manner.

Your Birthday

May 16, 1976

The coming year may hold some interesting surprises for you. You'll make many new acquaintances, and some travel is likely. You could possibly take that trip you've always hoped to make.

Western builders plan 3-day educational conclave

SAN FRANCISCO — A cross-section of prominent Western builders will direct three days of educational programs during the upcoming Pacific Coast Builders Conference that will reveal, among other things, whether the recent "Petaluma Decision" is the death knell for builders and if the "basic house" is indeed basic.

In announcing the programs for the PCBC, to be held June 23, 24 and 25 at the Fairmont Hotel here, conference program chairman Bernie Hagan said the impact of the Petaluma case on the future of the building industry and on the ability of consumers to buy homes will be a keynote question at PCBA.

The recent decision by the Supreme Court not to review a lower court ruling in favor of Petaluma's right to control the number of housing units built in the community is regarded by builders to have potentially widespread ramifications, Hagan said.

Moderating the panel on "No Growth and its Future Implications" at PCBC will be Eric Wittenberg, president of The Wittenberg Corp. of Los Angeles.

Featured on the panel will be the colorful Sally Sanford, mayor of Sausalito.

Whether the much publicized "basic house" is the cure-all For America's housing needs will be analyzed during a panel on "What To Build and Where To Build It."

Hagan said the wide divergence in land costs around the country as relates to the industry's ability to provide modestly priced housing will be an integral part of this pivotal program.

"You may be able to build a $30,000 house in Dallas and other low-land cost areas, but not in most other metropolitan regions because of much higher costs," Hagan declared.

Moderating this panel will be Merrill Butler, president of Butler Housing Corp., Irvine.

The impact of the skyrocketing costs of developing land as relates to initiating a housing project will be a central theme of a session on "The Advantages of Buying Developed or Unfinished Lots."

Raising Wild Pets

Harrassment isn't a 'ducky' idea

By GARY BOGUE

Dear Gary,

The situation described in your column April 25 (on dogs chasing ducks at Heather Pond) is outrageous. There must be laws that cover this — and people to enforce them.

Perhaps this points out the need for an S.P.C.A. or Humane Society branch in Contra Costa County. I have felt this to be a pressing need ever since I moved to Contra Costa County in 1966, particularly whenever I had dealings with our animal control.

Please keep writing about the ducklings, and help to correct such a dreadful situation.

I enjoyed your article on your mountain lion release in the current Defenders of Wildlife magazine. Enclosed is a tiny contribution for your museum orphans — I wish I could underwrite the whole rescue program!

Marjorie Simenson, Orinda

Dear Marjorie,

So do I!

The Humane Society of Contra Costa County phone is 525-0566. As with most humane organizations, they are undermanned and overworked, but always hard at work defending our mistreated creatures, large and small.

It's up to us to keep them posted on problems and to assist them in every way we can.

Dunbar tied for 10th

Diane Dunbar of Pleasanton was in a three-way tie for tenth place after Friday night's competition in the United States womens' Olympics gymnastics trials at Los Angeles.

The Foothill High School student was tied with Susuan Archer and Janice Baker. Each women had 110.40 points.

Kathy Howard of Oklahoma City was in first place with an excellent 112.95 total. Kim Chace of Florida was close behind in second with a 111.95 point total.

Dunbar was in 18th place after Thursday night's competition.

SR frosh double winner

LAFAYETTE — Davitt Cunningham of San Ramon High School came through with a great double-victory to highlight East Bay Athletic League swimming action at the North Coast Section meet yesterday at Acalanes High School.

Cunningham, just a freshman, won the frosh - soph 200-yard freestyle in 1:46.9 and the 100-yard backstroke in 56.05 for the only EBAL wins at the meet.

"I wasn't expecting to do this well," Cunningham said after the freestyle. "I was far behind early in the race and I had to hustle to win. I guess that's why my time was so fast."

His outstanding performance helped San Ramon take seventh in the frosh-soph race with 52 points. Terra Linda of San Rafael won easily with 161 markers.

Granada's frosh-soph divers also stood out. Wes Karch finshed second with a 343.80 total, Monte Young third (316.40) and Jim Tonne was seventh (283.60).

"They did very well," Granada coach Gus DeGara said of his divers. "I didn't think they would do nearly this well."

Granada's frosh - soph relay teams also did well, taking fifth in the freestyle and ninth in the medley.

On the varsity level Chris Hoenig of Granada was the EBAL's top competitor. He was third in the 500-yard freestyle (4:37.07) and took a suprise second in the 200-yard freestyle in 1:43.8. His performance in the freestyle came as a suprise to some observers because he only had the third fastest qualifying time.

Paul Lohmann of Livermore also turned in a fine performance. He was fifth in the 200-yard individual medley (2:01.9) and third in the 100-yard backstroke (56.1).

Amador's Brian Story was second in the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:01.2 and swam a leg on the Don medley relay team which clocked 1:42.3 for fifth place.

In varsity diving Dave Potts of Amador was seventh with a 341.73 score and Livermore's Dave Campbell had a 259.68 for 12th place.

Steve Czekala of Monte Vista and Kevin McKenna of Dublin took fourth and fifth respectively in the frosh-soph 500-yard freestyle. Czekala clocked a 4:58.9 and McKenna had a 4:59.3. Jay Jones of Califonia recorded a fifth place 59.5 in the frosh-soph 100-yard breaststroke.

San Rafael made it a clean sweep for Marin County Athletic League by winning the varsity title with 160 points, far ahead of runner-up Concord with 123 points. The top EBAL school was Amador with 44 points. Granada had 41 and Livermore 24.

MV nears crown with rout of Pokes

Monte Vista's George Cockerton is the type of coach who wins. He wins with consistency; enough to compile an outstanding 15-3-1 record. and to deliver a prep championship.

Cockerton, who left San Ramon Valley High school in the fall of 1974 in favor of Monte Vista has turned the Mustangs into one of the most inspiring baseball teams in the East Bay.

Friday was no exception, as the Mustangs beat Livermore 11-2.

"You guys saw the game," said Cockerton alluding to a couple journalists. "You can't say much about this one."

The Mustangs slapped out eight hits, tallied 11 runs in four innings, and received — as usual — remarkable pitching from the duo of senior Greg Goodman and sophomore Brad Miller.

Here's the East Bay Athletic league situation to date:

Monte Vista is 10-2 — one half game ahead of Amador Valley at 10-3. A Mustang win over San Ramon Valley Tuesday would seemingly end it. In fact, the EBAL officially ends Tuesday. However, if MV should defeat SRV there is a possibility MV would have to play a remake with California. On the other hand, if MV should lose to the Wolves coupled with an AV win over Cal, the Mustangs would have to play both Cal and AV for the championship.

In any case, Friday's contest in Alamo had been decided on Jim Beckers' third pitch of the warm afternoon.

Monte Vista's Mark Silva skimmed a Becker 2-1 offering into center field, and went to second base ahead of a late relay throw. Colleague Kevin Jones followed starching a base hit to left.

Jones, meanwhile stole second while Silva trotted home as catcher Brett Knapp's throw went anywhere but to second. Barry Long followed with his first base hit of three more to come. Goodman then drew a walk. Bases loaded.

Chris Hadsell grounded routinely left side, but third baseman Dave Dearborn was late in his throw to first — Jones scoring for 2-0. That sent up the free swinging, raw boned Mike Mattson.

After fouling two off, Becker came in 1-2 and Mattson jolted a sinking shot that cleared the left field screen — some 325 feet away. The end result: Grand slam for 6-0.

Monte Vista came back with one more in the ensuing frame, three in the fourth, and another in the fifth.

By virtue of the victory, Goodman is now 5-2 in league and 10-3 overall. In his five innings of shutout labor, Greg yielded two hits and struck out eight. In 48 innings of EBAL duty, Goodman has given up just 23 hits, 10 runs and wiffed 60.

Stang golfers in NCS playoffs

East Bay Athletic League principals cleared up the question of which school will represent the league at tomorrow's North Coast Section tournament at Alameda South by naming Monte Vista in a 7-1 vote.

Livermore had been scheduled to play Amador Valley Thursday in a replay of an earlier tie. Had the Cowboys won, a play-off match between Livermore and Monte Vista would have been forced.

But the league decided to let the tie stand, thus Monte Vista won the championship with a better percentage. The Mustangs also won the EBAL tourney at Dry Creek Ranch last week.

Amador golfers Jack Stevenson and Scott Peters will go to the NCS event as individual entrants as will EBAL champion Greg Allio of San Ramon.

Stone brilliant as Mats win

Steve Stone pitched 3⅓ innings of one-hit relief as Granada rolled to its fourth consecutive win, a 10-3 pasting of San Ramon.

Stone, pitching in relief of wild Bob Parness, walked just one batter and fanned three in his stint. He came into the game in the fourth inning, when the Wolves loaded the bases off winning pitcher Parness.

With the Mats holding a 7-3 lead, Stone faced San Ramon's slugging catcher Paul Miller with two out. Stone fed the bulky catcher two fastballs that Miller just watched and ran the count to 0-2.

Miller ran the count to 3-2 by taking three consecutive breaking pitches, but Stone quelled the threat by getting Miller to hit a high popup that rightfielder Don Smith just barely got to in time.

The Wolves never threatened again in the game, but the Mats were scoring in every inning but the sixth.

Vance Rushing's homer to deep left-center field in the bottom of the first inning tied the game at 1-1. The Wolves had scored the game's first run on walks to Rick Hanson and Ed Aitken, followed one out later by John Arnaudon's RBI single.

In the second, Granada scored five runs on just two hits. They loaded the bases on walks to Rich Reinhardt and Scott Trudeau, sandwiching a single by Tim Shatswell. With one out, Bob Parness and Dennis Lehew hit infield grounders that scored two runs, while Bill Jesperson's double cleared the bases.

Lehew's sacrifice fly brought the Mats another run in the third, while the Mats chased reliever Jeff Herrmann from the mound in the fourth on Steve Stone's crashing double off the left-field fence.

Granada's final run came in the fifth off of the Wolves' third pitcher. Lehew walked and scored on a single two outs later by Rich Reinhardt.

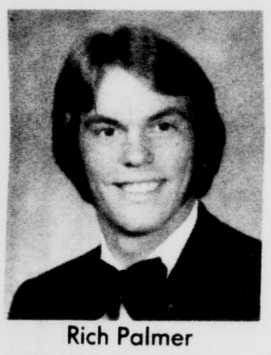
Livermore Boosters nominees



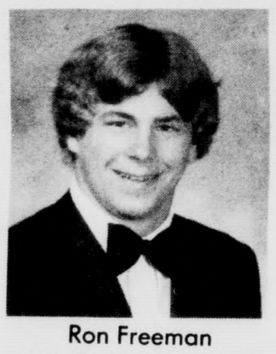
Rich Palmer

Probably best known for his exploits on the football field Rich Palmer of Livermore High School has also played soccer and baseball.

In addition to quarterbacking the Cowboy's football team the past two seasons Palmer has also played on on the varsity soccer team for three seasons and is currently in his third year on the varsity baseball team.

Palmer was the All-EBAL selection at quarterback last fall and also earned a second-team All-EBAL soccer berth as a sophomore. His biggest thrill, however, came when the Flecto Company twice named him their "East Bay Prep of the Week". He will also play for the Alameda County All-Stars in August.

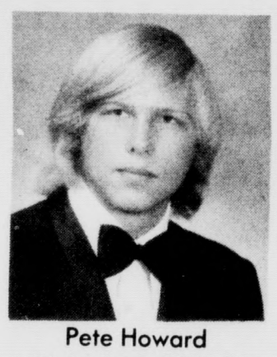
—Dan Wood



Ron Freeman

Ron Freeman is a very accomplished person. He has been on the Granada High Football team for four years and has been wrestling for three years. In his freshman year he decided he might just as well go out for the freshman football team. And in his sophomore year Coach Steve Page convinced him to try wrestling because he needed some bigger weight guys. These decisions seem to have been the right ones for Ron. Since then he has done fantastically in both sports. He was picked for the Alameda All Star Football team which will play in August. He was also All League offense and defense. In wrestling he was the Flecto East Bay Athlete of the week twice. And he was the North Coast divisional and sectional champion.

— Lisa Ricks

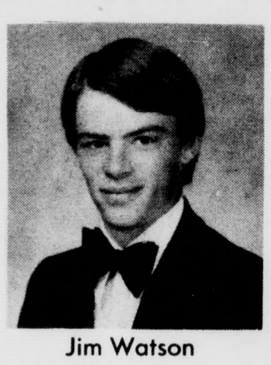


Pete Howard

After having allowed less than thirty goals in four years of EBAL soccer competition, it comes as a surprise to learn Livermore High athlete Pete Howard's career goal is to be a "television cameraman or technician"

Soccer is not the only sport Howard has excelled in. He has also played football for four years and baseball for three. Football has provided the greatest rewards for Howard. He was voted his team's Most Valuable Player, Outstanding Defensive Player, All EBAL, and all East Bay during his senior year.

— John Frazier

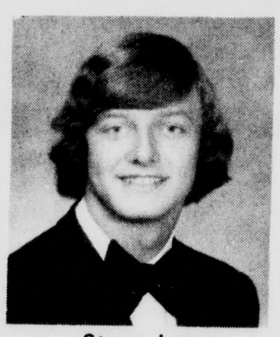


Jim Watson

Jim Watson, senior athlete at Granada High, is interested in many sports — especially water and snow skiing and racing sailboats. However, he has concentrated on soccer and tennis his four years at Granada.

In his sophomore year, Jim won the Most Valuable Player award on the J.V. soccer squad. Last year after winning the State Cup finals, Jim, as a member of the Nutrons, a local team, went to the National Finals held in Milwaukee. This year he received the MVP award for soccer.

— Lisa Ricks



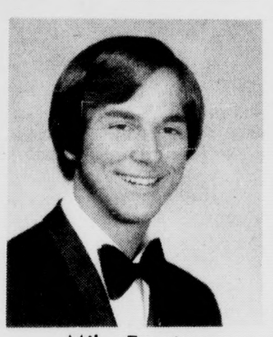
Steve Jens

Athletic excellence combined with academic achievement has been a way of life for Steve Jens of Livermore High School.

The 5-9, 155 pound senior has been an active participant in sports throughout his high school career. As a freshman he played football and basketball; and as a sophomore, junior and senior he lettered in both football and track.

Jen's talents, however are not limited to the playing field. He boasts an impressive 3.2 GPA while remaining active in athletics year around.

—Tim Henry



Mike Fracisco

Mike Fracisco has been a valuable member of the Granada High School varsity basketball team.

He has also played well for the tennis and golf teams as well.

Fracisco started playing tennis by competing in the Jr. Davis Cup contest during the summer.

Fracisco has worked hard in his studies and has a 3.6 GPA.

Deaton heads for stardom

Greg Deaton has accomplished in 13 months what most bowlers have trouble doing in a lifetime.

"I bowled my first game, a 93, 13 months ago in April of 1975," the 18-year old Granada High School student said. "Since then I've raised my average to 168 and have a high game of 247."

As a result of his rapid improvement the tall, wiry youth will compete in the national qualifying meet for the American Association Youth Bowling Congress in Oklahoma July 14.

Deaton qualified for the Oklahoma tournament by winning the state youth title at Westland Bowl in Stockton May 1. The top six bowlers at the Oklahoma tourney qualify for the finals in San Francisco in August.

He won the Handicappe Graduate Division, taking five of six matches.

Amador tips Foothill, stays alive

Foothill High School almost pulled off the upset of its young East Bay Athletic League baseball history, but Amador Valley put together a chaotic rally in the last of the seventh inning to take a 1-0 win yesterday afternoon in Pleasanton.

The Dons' junior righthander Rob Wicks, almost certain of a berth on the mythical all-East Bay team, survived a brief early wild spell to record a four-hit shutout, striking out eight and allowing only two walks, both with two outs in the second.

It was his eighth win of the season.

Foothill hurler Mike Krikorian matched Wicks for six innings and had little to do with the Falcons seventh inning demise. He struck out none but walked only one and scattered five hits.

The winning run was scored in rapid fashion after six and one-half innings of brilliant pitching and defense had lulled the crowd into a pleasant spring fever stupor.

Leading off the inning, Amador catcher Mark Bevilacqua lined a single over shortstop.

Don Palmer followed with a sacrifice bunt and, when Falcon firstbaseman Ken Franco charged late and was forced to hurry his toss, went to second on Franco's throwing error.

Wicks then received an intentional walk, a fact not reflected in Krikorian's pitching statistics since, in high school ball, a wave from an opposing coach is all that is needed to send a hitter to first.

Amador then squeezed home the winning run as ninth-place batter Bill Bevilacqua pushed a bunt right back at the mound while his brother charged in from third unmolested.

Nonetheless, Foothill coach Rich Boschetti, ired by a recent bad press, felt vindicated by the near miss.

"Look what we've done against the second place team," he pointed out. "We've played Amador twice and lost 2-1 and 1-0. For awhile I thought we'd finish them off today."

The Dons needed the elusive win to stay afloat in the EBAL title chase as they entered the contest half a game behind Monte Vista.

Before the decisive seventh, neither team could get a runner as far as third, but both got runners to second base three times.

Foothill's scoring opportunities came on Wicks' two second-inning walks, a fourth inning double by designated hitter Chris Neves and a fifth inning throwing error by AV's Mike Johnson.

Amador, meanwhile, got halfway in the first on errors by Franco and shortstop Tommy Wainwright, in the fifth on a single and fielder's choice to Wicks and in the sixth when Johnson reached on a fielder's choice and stole second.

AMADOR SHORTSTOP GOES FOR BROKE AGAINST FALCONS
Despite effort Dave Johnson went hitless Friday

Cal tops Dublin, 4-2

Dublin High's baseball team can hit the ball. Really. Just ask the Gaels' coach Tom Mullican.

"This must be the best batting practice team I've ever had," said the Dublin coach Friday afternoon, after watching California's Chuck Cary stop his club, 4-2, on just two hits.

"I can't understand it," he continued "We hit the ball great all week and then when we get into a game situation we can't even see the ball."

Cary, who raised his East Bay Athletic League record to 3-1 with the win, seemed to be putting on a well planned disappearing act. Outside of the fourth inning when Larry Castillo tripled in Dublin's only runs, the Cal mound ace had the Gaels completely under control. Cary struck out nine and walked only four and carried Cal to its seventh victory against four defeats. Seventh place Dublin is now 3-9 on the year.

Catcher Roger Hurlow scored the Grizzlies first run on a bases loaded walk in the opening frame. Cal came back with three more in the second on three singles by Bret Cary, Hurlow and C. Cary.

Don girls win softball title

Carolyn Fleischer's three-run homer and Debbie Oxsen's pair of home runs led the Dons to their third consecutive EBAL girls softball championship as the Amador team trounced San Ramon in a 35-2 slugfest in Pleasanton Fri day. The Dons are now 8-0 in league play and clinched the crown with the victory.

Amador, compiling 12 runs in the first three innings and adding an equal number in the fourth frame, pounded out a tremendous 30 hits while holding the Wolves to only two runs in the third stanza. The San Ramon club switched positions frequently in an effort to find a way to win, but Amador's powerful bats settled the question.

Amador hurler and all-around standout Oxsen pitched her first full game and fanned three batters while giving up only four hits. The multi-talented junior also went four-for-seven at the plate for a fine game.

Don centerfielder Sheryl Withoft and right fielder Jean Borton tied for RBI honors with seven each, while Oxsen and Fleischer followed with five apiece. Jayne Kuhns and Deanna Marengo also hit well for the winners.

Mary Jo Melko and Sue Little were responsible for bringing in San Ramon's only two scoring runs, while Little struck out two Amador batters.

Foothill High School, avenging an earlier loss to California, pounded out 14 hits en route to a 15-6 victory over the Grizzlies in league action Sunday. The Falcons are now 4-5 for the season, while Cal is 4-4.

"They didn't do much wrong," exclaimed Foothill coach Sherri Burroughs. "They played really well and did some excellent fielding along with some great hitting," she explained.

Kelly Grogan belted a home run, as did teammate Carrie McNatt. Cheryl Eldred smashed a triple and batted in three runners, while Kim Iverson, Lyn Filiatreaux and McNatt each equalled her RBI performance with three each.

With the bases loaded with Cal runners in the first inning, freshman pitcher Lynn Fruchtenicht struck out the succeeding three Grizzly batters to retire the side. The talented Falcon went on to strike out five more batters for an excellent pitching performance.

Dog-eared petition

Ex-nurse fights animal cruelty

LIVERMORE — The tiny lady wears a big pin that says: DON'T GET WRAPPED IN A FUR THAT'S BEEN TRAPPED.

"That's how I get people to notice me," Sally Salas confesses with a shy dark - eyed smile.

"Then I ask them to sign my petition."

She pulls out a dog - eared sheaf of papers, signed in every shade of ink by people from here to Salinas.

"Here, want to sign?"

Miss Salas is a retired nurse ("I retired twice. I can never stay retired more than a year at a time.") who has high blood pressure, arthritis and poor eyesight.

She's not the type to march with a picket sign or set up a petition table outside a supermarket. But she's on a one - woman crusade against fur trapping, greyhound racing and other forms of cruelty to animals.

"I've never done anything like this before," she says "I hate to ask people to do things. But then I think of Miss Salas has been a member of the Humane Society (headquartered in Washington, D.C.) for the past four years. She can't even remember how she joined — "I think I picked up a pamphlet somewhere." She's also a member of the Good Shepherd Shelter in Vancouver, and three years ago went to visit that unique institution for stray dogs, cats, birds, horses, chickens and goats.

Sally has a living room full of plants; a bedroom she shares with her cat, Cookie; a little kitchen where a stray white cat, Misty, found a meal and moved in.

She works part - time at the Livermore Manor nursing home because she likes the elderly.

"In fact," she muses, "I like anybody or anything that's in need."

Trapping is a particular concern of Miss Salas'. Despite years of publicity, animals are still being caught in tortorous steel - jawed traps for their fur. And, of course, other animals not intended to be caught also walk into the traps and die agonizing deaths.

According to the Humane Society, "More than 11 million animals are trapped for their fur in the U.S. every year in this manner."

Sally says, "Even the Scouts have a merit badge for catching and killing a mouse to study its fur. Don't they think animals have feelings too?"

She wrote to scouting headquarters in New Jersey about the issue and received the reply that killing a mouse was not a REQUIRED part of earning that merit badge, and that kindness was part of the Boy Scout motto.

Besides, said the letter, we're reconsidering that point.

Another type of steel trap, used to catch water animals like muskrat and beaver, beheads ducks who dip their heads into the water to inspect it.

Sally is also upset about the current attempt to legalize greyhound racing in five California counties including Alameda County.

According to Humane Society information, greyhounds are trained by "coursing —" allowing young, hungry dogs to chase a rabbit set free in an enclosed field.

Rabbits are also hung upside down from a mechanical device that is dangled in front of the dogs as they run. They are allowed to maul it, but not always to kill it.

The "sport" is not even humane for the dogs themselves, Humane Society literature asserts.

"Approximately 50 per cent of the greyhounds are killed before they even see a track, because they fail to demonstrate competitive characteristics." Retired greyhounds are also destroyed because their killer disposition and social deprivation make them unsuitable for pets.

Nor is Sally a rodeo fan — "They use electric cattle prods.

"Besides, why should the animals be forced to run around in that hot sun? If people don't have the sense to get out of it, that's their problem. But the animals don't have any choice."

On bullfights: "I'm always happy when the bull knocks the man down."

Anyone who wants to contact the gentle lady to sign her petition on trapping may call her at 447-1587.

Telephone calls may not be the best thing for her blood pressure. But she wants to arouse public interest in better treatment for animals.

"When I think of the poor animals being trapped or torn apart by dogs or killed needlessly," she says — "it makes me sick."

31 varieties

City roses blooming

LIVERMORE — Queen Elizabeth, Black Velvet and Charlotte Armstrong are just a few of the budding beauties who have their roots firmly planted in what undoubtedly is the most fragrant 16,000 square feet in town.

These colorful characters are permanent residents of the rose garden at R.A. Hansen Park, an area that takes up just over one-third an acre at the triangular area where First Street branches off into Stanley Boulevard and Holmes Street.

The garden, established in the early 1960's by the city park department and the Livermore Rose Society, boasts some 31 different varieties of roses blooming on 610 bushes — a figure made possible because the bushes are planted about 18 inches apart.

The flowers, now at the height of their blooming season which began in April and will last until September, are tended by mobile crews from the city's park department.

The job is not an easy one — the bushes must be pruned back to within 18 inches of their crown every January, fertilized three times a year and weeded once a month (reported, understandably enough, to be the most unpopular assignment). Dead flower heads are removed about once a week, a job that takes one person a full day, and the bushes are sprayed with a chemical insecticide only as required. Last year, they were sprayed twice for aphids.

The watering is done by an automated system that operates three times a week in the early morning for about 20 minutes.

This watering operation, according to Parks and Trees Superintendent Dan Freitas, helps protect the roses from the traffic patterned around the park and also eliminates mildew because it cleans the foilage and gives the flowers a chance to dry off.

All the labor put into the garden, however, is not in vain. Frietas reports this is the time of year appreciative residents comment to his people on the beauty of the park.

The park, named after R A. Hansen who was a large property owner and rancher in Livermore (his spread at one time was bordered by what is now Holmes Street and Arroyo Road from the Arroyo Mocho down to Concannon Boulevard), was established at a time when rose growing was one of the major industries in the valley. (More than 2,000 acres in Livermore were usdd to grow the thorny flowers.)

The park also features an old wagon loaded with logs and surrounded by climbing roses and a fountain centered amongst the bushes. A Deodora cedar also grows in the park and the Beautification Committee this last Arbor Day planted a redwood tree at the park.

— By Karel Kramer

R.A. Hansen Park offers a tranquil setting and a feast for one's senses.

What Has ZONE 7 Got To Do With Taxes?

Taxes are necessary to pay for government which provides us with services that we cannot provide for ourselves. Taxes go up because of inflation and because we demand more services.

Business pays property taxes based on the value of their land, buildings, equipment and inventory. Typically more tax money is paid on business property than would be paid on the same property if it were residentially developed.

Therefore the more business we can attract to the Valley, the smaller your share of the taxes, as a resident, will be.

Attracting business into the valley is good business. Have your ZONE 7 candidates attracted business to our Valley or have they driven it out?

PLEASANTON

Grand Opening Pleasanton! Our newest vintage crop.

The rolling hills of a former vineyard, overlooking the delightful Amador Valley, could be the site of your gracious new H. C. Elliott home.

For the first time since last year, beautiful new homes, on spacious, elevated lots, are available in the Elliott community of Vintage Hills in desirable Pleasanton. Vintage Hills is a homeowner's dream come true. The environment is superb, as are the value and quality of five distinctive 3, 4 and 5 bedroom floor plans. Even though your work may take you into an urban area each day, it's still possible for you and your family to enjoy clean, clear Vintage Hills living without being "out of touch."

The entire Bay Area is easily accessible via convenient interstate highways. Schools are excellent and recreation facilities unequaled. There's one more vital ingredient in the Vintage Hills formula. It's the fact that you'll be looking into homes designed and constructed by H. C. Elliott, Inc., a firm that has marketed more than 8,000 dwellings to satisfied Californians over the past 30 years. Come and inspect our vintage crop today. We think you'll be impressed.

Directions:
From North: take Interstate 680 to Bernal Avenue exit at Pleasanton. Turn left on Bernal to Main Street. Slight jog left on Main, then jog right as Bernal continues to First Street. Turn left on First, then right on Vineyard to Tawny Drive and the model home complex.

From South: take Interstate 680 to Sunol Boulevard off ramp which exits on First Street. Continue into Pleasanton on First. Turn right on Vineyard to Tawny Drive and the model complex.

Models are open from 10 a.m. 'till dusk.
